

Biography

Peter Mullan is a Law Graduate from University College Dublin. He qualified as a Solicitor in 1993. He was a criminal defence solicitor in one of Ireland's largest Criminal Defence Practices for 16 years, 9 of which were as a managing Partner. In 2012 he moved to the prosecution becoming the Chief Prosecution Solicitor in the Office of the DPP heading up the Solicitors Division in that office. In October 2015 he will leave the ODPP to take up the position of Assistant Secretary, Crime and Security Directorate at the Department of Justice and Equality.