

Ursula Schmudermayer is a Senior Public Prosecutor at the Central Public Prosecutor's Office for Combatting Economic Crime and Corruption in Vienna, Austria. Out of her daily work she gained more than 15 years' experience in conducting criminal investigations in cross-border cases and expertise in international cooperation in criminal matters. Being in charge of large-scale economic crimes with transnational impact, she also specialised on financial investigations and asset tracing in cybercrimes.