

Lenneke Bronkhorst

Summary Bio

- She studied Criminal Law and Criminology in Leiden and after that, she started working for the public prosecutor's office in 2011.
- First as the assistant to the public prosecutor, working mainly in investigations concerning human trafficking, human smuggling, cold cases and drugs. This was in Rotterdam so a lot of work was related to the world harbor and it is a big city, near Belgium, therefore lots of cases had an international component
- After a training of three years in which I got to work as a judge and a lawyer as well, I became a prosecutor myself. Now I work in Arnhem, in the east of the Netherlands, near the border with Germany.
- Currently her caseload consists of HIC, high impact crime cases.
- She is the head of the Centre for International Legal Assistance in criminal matters.