

Ms. Kairi Kaldoja brief biographical note

Ms Kairi Kaldoja studied law at the University of Tartu. Before turning to prosecution she was an intern in the Supreme Court of Estonia. She started working in the Northern District Prosecutor's Office as an assistant prosecutor dealing mostly with petty crimes (shoplifting, DUI etc). After some time in the Office of the Prosecutor General, she specialized on financial crimes and corruption, starting her work as a district prosecutor in the Southern District Prosecutor's Office. In 2017 Ms Kaldoja was appointed as the Chief Prosecutor of Southern District Prosecutor's Office. She is also a lecturer in the University of Tartu, teaching legal argumentation in the faculty of law.