

Synopsis of presentation

Max Hill QC will outline the importance of independence for the Crown Prosecution Service of England and Wales, covering from whom they are independent and why. He will also emphasise that independence must not be used as a barrier to collaborative working, or a shield to avoid accountability.