

Biography:

Lene Doherty is a lawyer at the UK Central Authority within the Home Office whose role is to review and progress requests for mutual legal assistance from countries around the world. Prior to joining the UK Central Authority Lene gained extensive experience in criminal litigation whilst working as a prosecutor in Scotland before subsequently moving to private practice and working as a criminal defence solicitor. Lene has an LL.M in International Criminal Law and is a member of the New York Bar Association.